Want Uniform Rates.

A committee consisting of Misses Naomi Simmons Margaret Watkins and Elizabeth Webb was appointed to look into the present rates charged by nurses in different parts of the State, with the view of adopting a uniform rate. The principal difficulty is in nursing contagious cases, after which a nurse generally waits ten days before taking another case, so as to avoid all chance of spreading the disease. It is held that the rate in these cases should be increased, because of the necessary loss of time.

A committee, of which Miss M. J. Minor is chairman, was appointed to consult with the Red Cross Society for the purpose of establishing a branch in this State. One of the rules of this society is that in time of war or disaster members of the society take charge and can call upon all affiliated organizations for assistance.

The opening statement in the declaration is that the Porter Distillery Company gave bond on September 1, 1905, to carry on business in Eastern in June of last year and whether it proposes any real content of the proposed value to that his company had contracts for structural company had contracts for structural struction. structions from City Engineer Bolling. In June, 1939, an extension of one year was granted the company on its franchise, the conditions being that it should begin construction in ninety days and that it should deposit with the city $100,000 as an evidence of good faith, the money to be paid out only for actual construction work or materials furnished on approval of the City Engineer and the Committee on materials furnished on approval of the City Engineer and the Committee on Streets. Some time ago the company filed with City Engineer Bolling bills and vouchers for payment of engineers and draftsmen now at work on plans. Mr. Bolling asked to be instructed whether such plans came within the meaning of the term, "construction

Bills for Old Foundations.

Later the company filed bills for certain foundations and concrete abutments, laid some years ago, with interest from the time the work was completed. Mr. Bollong also asked in completed. Mr. Bolling also asked incompleted. Mr. Bolling also asked instructions whether to approve payment out of the $100,000 on deposit with the city on bills for work ordered and executed prior to the ordinance of June 22, 1909.

"I know nothing about the value and character of the past work," said Mr. Bolling. "It was done before I came into office. I am not prepared to say whether these bills represent a fair character of the past work," said Mr. Boilling. "It was done before I came into office. I am not prepared to say whether these bills represent a fair outlay for the work or not. While I personally have every confidence in Mr. Mason, the contractor who built the abutments and concrete plers, yet I am not in a position to say that they will carry the load of the viaduct to be imposed upon them. I think the city should have the certificate of some engineer under whom the work was done as to their strength, whether the viaduct is to be built by this company for its own use or for the city's use, or to sell to somebody else. The franchise says the plans must be approved by the Committee on Streets, but the franchise does not require me to see to it that the bridge is of proper strength. "I wish to know also whether I am to accept without question their state. ments as to the amount of engineering services and material purchased. The city has provided no inspector to check up the work and certify to the correctness of the accounts."

Referred to Special Meeting.

As it was evident that there were a number wishing to speak on the question, and as other matters were pending. Mr. Billey moved that a special meeting of the Street Committee be held one night next week to take up all matters relating to the Richmond and Henrico Railway and its proposed viaduct, when the City Engineer, the City Attorney and all partles at interest will be invited to be present.

James D.
